Bill Ayers

Education: An American Problem

Ann Arbor: The Radical Education Project 1968

$350

First edition. Quarto. 10pp. Stapled photographically illustrated wrappers. Two tiny tears on the last leaf, else about fine. Brief examination of American education by SDS member, community organizer in Cleveland, and FOB (Friend Of Barack). At the time this was published Ayers was on the staff of Children's Community, a radical experiment in education in Ann Arbor, as well as a candidate for that city's school board. Very uncommon. Reprinted in the 1970s, OCLC locates just seven copies of this first edition (over two records; four in the U.S., two in Australia, and one is in Canada). Suitable as use for a prop on Fox News.
