[Photo Album]: Middlebury College

Middlebury, Vermont: 1940s

$950

Oblong quarto measuring 11½" x 15". White leather over paper boards with "Middlebury" and a large "M" stamped on the front board. Contains 175 black and white and sepia toned gelatin silver photographs with some captions and two newspaper clippings. Near fine photo album with fine photographs.

A photo album kept by a female student at Middlebury College in Vermont in the 1940s. The album follows the woman and her classmates as they pose around campus during the various seasons and attending college events. A number of photos show the women participating in field hockey on campus. The girls are often photographed outside enjoying the natural beauty of Vermont and the Middlebury campus with trips to lakes, snow scenes, and one photo of a group of girls sunbathing. One series of photos shows the girls watching on a hill as a group of uniformed Naval cadets march on the campus. Four photos show girls in graduation robes preparing for the ceremony. One section of photos shows a spread of snapshots taken at a talent shows with girls in costume in the middle of performances which included a Hawaiian dance and a girl dressed to make it look as though she had feet for hands.

A nice collection of photographs depicting women pursuing higher education in the 1940s.
