GERMAN-ENGLISH COMMUNIST GLOSSARY

JUNE 1970

S-198,699

Quarto. 440pp. Screw-bound from the top with printed gray boards. A trifle scuffed on the boards, a couple of the hole-punched leaves a little askew, but overall very near fine. A very uncommon dictionary/glossary, issued, almost certainly by an unidentified U.S. Government Agency at the height of the Cold War, according to the introduction, interpreting the use of German words as weapons in the Communist agitprop campaigns. OCLC locates only two copies, both in intelligence libraries: Central Intelligence Agency and Space Intelligence Center in Ohio.
