

Louie Gingras as told to Jo Rainbolt

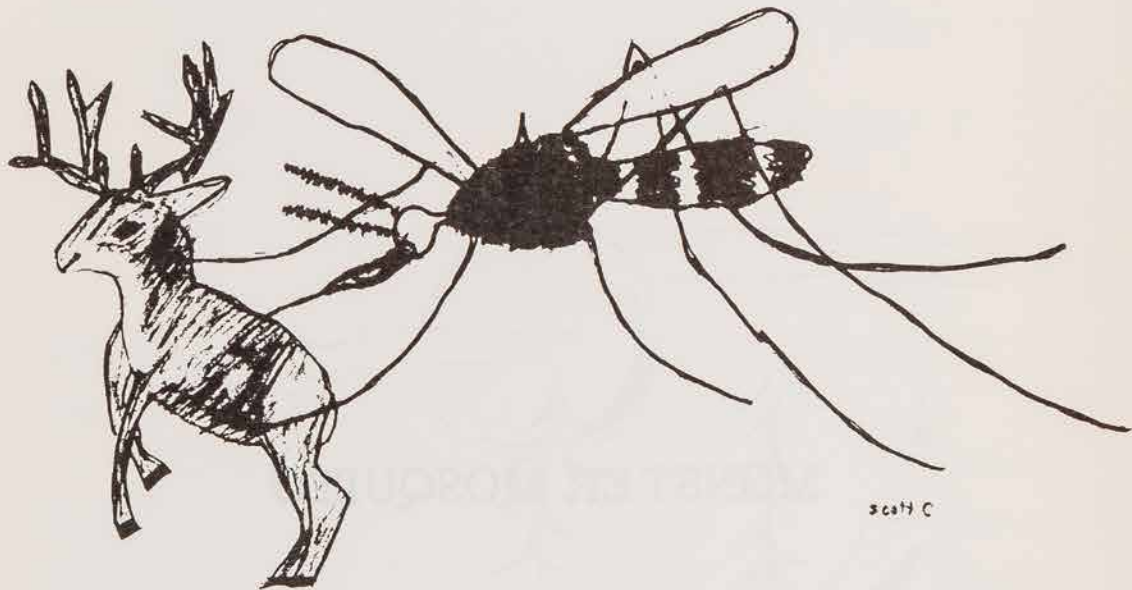

Coyote and Kootenai

Billings, Montana: Montana Council for Indian Education 1977

$200

First edition. Octavo. 35pp. Illustrated by Pat Robinson, Alex Bulltail, Scott Camrud, Kori Schloemer. Stapled illustrated yellow wrappers. Fine. Winter legends for children by an 84 year old Native American, tribe not specified. [BTC#425472]

when Mosquito was going by they said,
"Come have some blood for lunch."

Mosquito ate so much blood his belly was ready to explode. Coyote told some kids to go pound on Mosquito's boat.

"Mosquito, there's some kids fooling around your boat," Coyote said, and Mosquito started running to his boat. He was so fat he fell down and the pine needles stuck him.

When he died, his eyes exploded and Coyote told the eyes, "You be mosquitoes. You can bite people but don't kill them."

