

Paul S. Szpara

[Cover title]: Safe Lights

[No place]: Paul S. Szpara [no date - circa 1975?]

$150

SAFE LIGHTS

Poems

By Paul S. Szpara

Presumed first and only edition. Octavo. [58]pp. No title page, almost certainly as issued. Quarter canvas and photographically illustrated front wrap with unprinted card rear wrap, presumably as issued. A little light soiling on front wrap, else near fine.

TERRY

FROM ONE FREE SPIRIT
TO ANOTHER ...

"Cut Your Hair &
Get a real Job"

NOT!!

Really?!

DON'T CHANGE

Enjoy

Paul S. Brown

Full page Inscription by the author, in part: "From one free spirit to another." Mildly sexualized romance poetry about dating, lust, and the search for connection. Mentions going out to Eastern Long Island, making us think this might have been published in New York or Brooklyn. Author sports a shag haircut which is probably consistent with our presumed date. Each poem bears a copyright notice by the author, although if we might be so bold, it probably wasn't necessary. OCLC locates no copies, or any other work by this author. A curiosity and exemplar of poetry of its own era.

[BTC#425956]